The Virginia Wine Festival—We had a full bus for our day trip to the Virginia Wine Festival! Some interesting wines—some very good wines. A very, very hot day!—trees would have been nice. Everyone had a good time. Thanks to Cranberry Liquors for the various, cold bubbies and to College Square Liquors for the cold white.

Comments from our Travelers—“As far as I'm concerned Virginia is the ‘Show me state’. I wanted the state to show good wine and they did. Step aside wine snobs and give the East Coast a chance.”—Betty Kreder

“Fine wine in the sweltering heat. Or is it sweltering wine in the fine heat? Excellent time and good company.”—Michael Barbour

“We spent a couple of pleasant hours trying to escape the heat with [other] inmates of the cool down tent.”—Joan Brunett

“I am glad I did it, but it will not be a ‘must go’ on my calendar. I am surprised that they had as many good red wines as they did, but the day and environment was not to their advantage”—Mary Evans

“My experience with the heat made me wish for Fall.”—Barry Brunett

Maryland Wine Festival Volunteers—Emily has sent out materials for signing up to volunteer to help with the CCAWS Wine Tasting Seminars at the Maryland Wine Festival September 17 & 18. Send e-mail to her at emily@carr.org if you did not receive a packet from her and would like to help.

The next wine tasting will be at Becky and Dean Wilson's on Sunday, September 11th at 2:00 pm. The Wilsons will be presenting Montrachets. These are costly wines making for a costly tasting ($25.00 per person). Please call them if you would like to attend. Call early as the number of persons will be limited due to space. You may want to bring your own glasses for this tasting. The club glasses will be available, but some wines deserve better.
